DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-8, drawn to a method, classified in class 164, subclass 113.
 - II. Claims 9-13, drawn to an article, classified in class 428.

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

2. Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make another and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the method can be used to make a piston.
3. Because these inventions are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious burden on the examiner if restriction is not required because the inventions require a different field of search (see MPEP § 808.02), restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.
4. During a telephone conversation with Mr. Johnathan Bockman on March 7, 2007, a provisional election was made without traverse to prosecute the invention of group I, claims 1-8. Affirmation of this election must be made by applicant in replying to this Office action. Claims

Art Unit: 1725

9-15 are withdrawn from further consideration by the examiner, 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a non-elected invention.

5. Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1725

8. Claims 1, 2, 3, 4, 6, 7, and 8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Applicant's admitted prior art (page 1), and further in view of Clark (US 1,210,421) and Clements (US 3,254,849).

Applicant's admitted prior art (page 1) discloses the method of producing a grinding body comprising the steps of forming a core and placing in a mold, then pouring molten metal to form the grinding body.

Applicant's admitted prior art fail to teach using a holding element to hold the main core (grinding body) and having a casing around the holding element.

However, Clark (US 1,210,421) discloses using an arbor (6) to support the main core (7).

Therefore, it would have been obvious to an ordinary skill in the art to have an arbor as taught by Clark, in Applicant's admitted prior art, in order to hold the grinding body core during casting.

Furthermore, Clements (US 3,254,849) discloses using a metallic casing (11) having the same composition as that contemplated for the finished product so as to minimize thermal expansion and contraction differences within the wall of the finish product.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to an ordinary skill in the art to have a metallic casing taught by Clements, over the core of Clark, in order to both support the main core and having the same metallic composition as the final product in order to minimize thermal expansion and contraction of the grinding body.

Also, it would have been obvious to have the excess length of the metallic casing to be between one and two thirds of the diameter of the holding elements, since this would depend on the size of the main core. A larger main core would require more excess length in order to have enough leverage for holding.

Allowable Subject Matter

9. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
